It seems as though Wendy Doyon was destined to please people. Having worked in the service industry most of her life, from owning and operating a cafe in South Africa, to working in a hair salon, creating flower arrangements and running a bed and breakfast, Wendy's experiences are varied. She easily charms you with her ability to satisfy your needs and make you feel at home. Byward Bed and Breakfast, in business since July 2001, has already been mentioned in "Ulysses" and "Purple Roots."

After a long day of sightseeing, enjoy a good night's sleep in one of two rooms, both featuring en-suite bathrooms and a private balcony. A wholesome breakfast welcomes you in the morning - freshly brewed coffee, tea or tisanes served with croissants, fruit loaves, a plate of fruit, yoghurt and homemade granola.

Passionate About Art

Art is a point of passion for Wendy. At Byward Bed and Breakfast, her talents are obvious in the space that she creates and shares with her guests. Each room exhibits hospitality and warmth. This bed and breakfast is, without a doubt, in a league of its own. While many B&B's are filled with antique furnishings, Byward breaks the mould with its Zen-like decor. Walls and furnishings are painted white, modern paintings are displayed on walls and simple, yet elegant flower arrangements grace table tops. Inquire about the art displayed and you may find yourself talking to the artist, as many of the pieces were created by Wendy or her daughter, currently residing in Montreal.
