Hotel Review*Home Sweet Home

Enjoy a relaxing trip to the nation's capital with hosts Brian Desjarlais and Sid Van Reenen in their beautifully restored award-winning 18th century home. Bryan and Sid create a friendly atmosphere in their home by sitting and talking with their guests, and by having a genuine interest in the stories shared. Their dedication and devotion to their guests' comfort and happiness is an outstanding example to the service industry.

Start Your Day Right!

A breakfast cook by trade, Brian provides a wonderfully complete breakfast. Guests staying a while will delight at the variety of dishes served as Brian tempts your taste buds with his ever-changing menu.

Prime Location

Situated in the quaint university district of Sandy Hill, Home Sweetland Home is within walking distance from Parliament Hill, the Byward Market, the University of Ottawa and the Rideau Canal. Driving? No need to worry! Unlike many B&B's downtown, Home Sweetland Home has free parking on site. And if you aren't sure how to spend your time, Brian and Sid are remarkably helpful providing a wide selection of tourist information including pamphlets, internet sites and personal advice. With all this help, you can't help but enjoy Ottawa to its fullest!

Make Yourself at Home

Ottawa is known for its extreme weather, but just because you're staying in an 18th century home doesn't mean you won't be comfortable. Cool off with Sweetland's air conditioning during Ottawa's hot and humid summer months. In winter, warm up by the parlors' marble fireplace after a cold skate on the Rideau Canal. Here on business? Telephone, computer and internet facilities are available. Two tastefully decorated bedrooms share a full bathroom with the added convenience of a sink in each room. Extra cots are available. Children stay free of charge. The suite, good for a small family or long-term stays, has a private bath, living room and kitchenette. In warmer seasons, enjoy the relaxing wrap-around porch to read a good book.
